

Under apartheid, black Africans had to have special permission to enter and remain within urban...

Encyclopedia of Genocide and Crimes Against Humanity, 2005
From World History in Context

Under apartheid, black Africans had to have special permission to enter and remain within urban areas and were required to carry "interior passports" at all times. In this photo, a woman holds up the so-called dom pass.

[ALAIN NOGUES/CORBIS SYGMA]

This image may be used for personal, non-commercial purposes only.

Full Text: COPYRIGHT 2005 Gale.

Source Citation

"Under apartheid, black Africans had to have special permission to enter and remain within urban..." Encyclopedia of Genocide and Crimes Against Humanity. Ed. Dinah L. Shelton. Vol. 1. Detroit: Macmillan Reference USA, 2005. World History in Context. Web. 9 Oct. 2015.

Document URL

http://ic.galegroup.com/ic/whic/ImagesDetailsPage/ImagesDetailsWindow?total=52∓query=&prodId=WHIC&windowstate=normal&contentModules=&mode=view&displayGroupName=Images&limiter=&currPage=3&displayGroups=&sortBy=relevance%2Cdescending&p=WHIC%3AUHIC&action=e&catId=GALE%7C00000000MXDS&view=docDisplay&documentId=GALE%7CPC3434687014&source=B&bookmark&u=j101914&jsid=1f09b7ec0a7f82f0f892cb575ea9b833

Gale Document Number: GALE|PC3434687014